

2007 numerology forecast

The answer lies in the number nine

By Nam Hari Kaur Khalsa

Imagine yourself the captain of a ship about to leave the familiar terrain of your cozy harbor, embarking on a voyage into uncharted waters. As you lose sight of the receding shoreline, the quiet ocean suddenly becomes violently active, the navigation system fails, and even the stars of the night sky are hiding behind a thick cover of clouds as you gaze towards the heavens for guidance. What will you do?

With seven as the primary number for this year, we will feel challenged in the areas of information, guidance, and knowing what to do. Our internal compass will be stressed by an overload of information and potential misinformation, which will have many people reacting in a distrustful, suspicious, or potentially paranoid state of mind.

A strange sort of fanaticism will begin to take root, with the need to tribalize into groups based on the need for support and protection. There is also a positive aspect to this, as people motivated by higher consciousness and spiritual integrity will be uniting to form a collective voice and vision for global awareness. a perfectly illustrated view of this phenomenon, watch the movie “Sphere,” starring Dustin Hoffman. It’s a sci-fi thriller with a metaphysical twist.

Where is the balance point to all of this? The answer lies in the overall number for the year, which is nine. Seven represents the intellect, and nine is our subtle energetic body, that part of ourselves which is in tune with the subtleties of life. It is also the space of our deepest intuition. Everyone has a subtle body, and the more you consciously relate to this part of your being, the more information it will have to share with you. Ask yourself the question, “What does my subtle body have to say?” This will be the saving grace and guidance you need when your ship is challenged, so you can sense where the coral reef or sandbar is, intuitively know if the friendly flag on the other ship is for real, or feel the slightest shift in barometric pressure so you may batten down the hatches in time.

The subtle body is above time and space, and Yogi Bhanjan has said it is the most powerful of our Ten Light Bodies. One of the easiest ways to strengthen your subtle body and connect “spiritual cross-training,” so keep your spa day pass, yoga mat, and hiking boots in good order! Spiritual is that which has spirit. So why not check out salsa, swing, or country western dancing to shake off the tension after a long week. Seven embodies the themes of music and singing which are both powerful ways to elevate ourselves.

Looking again to the number nine, the overall number for the year, we will see many issues come to the forefront that are of concern to women. Nine embodies female energy, and in the positive polarity more women will be voicing their concerns on global events and wanting to respond in a more humanitarian gesture.

In its highest octave, nine is universal love. “Man does not know that this world is a restaurant and he has come here to stay only for awhile. And this is a period for liberation. If he will possess whatever he has to possess but will not be possessed by the material things, and not be a slave to them, it will be most beautiful for him to feel free and light and live in love. That is what love is.” (Yogi Bhanjan) with the Golden Chain of ascended Masters, is to meditate on the Tratakam photo¹. This is called Sabaj Yog or, “Easy Way.” When we stop the mental chatter and the buildup of clutter in our own minds, then space will exist for the flow of our own psyche to come through for us. Our own innate spiritual wisdom is given breathing room to exist, without being bludgeoned by the overworking of thought, logic, and reason.

Yogi Bhanjan has further said, “We all have something in common. We all breathe; therefore we all vibrate, and that vibration is the source of our life. Whosoever can create rhythm within his own vibration, the entire Creation will create a rhythmic sound around him.” Using the breath is how we can keep our battery charged and ready to face life’s changes and enjoy the opportunities which come our way.

Many people are concerned with health issues in these times, or know someone who is. Number seven represents the water element, and specifically the fluids in the body. The human body is composed of 60% water, which includes the blood and lymphatic system. 2007 is an excellent and essential time for physical cleansing through sweating—via exercise, sweat lodge, sauna, steam room, and lymphatic drainage massage. These therapies will also help the brain to detoxify and not feel so overwhelmed by negative thoughts. This is the year for Ideally this cycle will also give the male psyche the opportunity to come into balance after an overextension of aggressive territorial actions. However, this issue is literally hanging in the balance throughout the year. A winner will be known by November. Curiously enough it really boils down to, “Do we all win or do we all lose?” Everyone is affected by issues of global warming, so we can see that it is unwise to initiate a sequence where you cannot bear the consequence. One of the five sutras² of the Aquarian Age is, “Recognize that the other person is you.” This inspired state of consciousness would certainly change the course of local and world events in a heartbeat, and one of the best ways to feel empowered is in knowing that you are changing the world through your personal evolution and shining the essence of that light on all those you meet. In the words of Maya Angelou, “And suddenly we see that love costs all we are and will ever be. Yet it is only love which sets us free.”
